HOPE FOR NEW DRY LAW IS SHATTERED

Veto of Matheson Bill Kills Chance of Mulberger Substitute.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison.—New prohibition enforcement legislation to replace the existing Mulberger law is practically out of the question in the present session, as a result of the veto by Governor Blaine of the Matheson bill, members of all factions said Tuesday night. The suggestion that the governor that a measure conforming to his suggestions be rushed through before adjournment, will doubtless meet severe opposition. There will be no serious attempt to override the veto when it comes up for consideration Thursday morning. With the Matheson bill then disposed of, it is expected that the administration will present a bill embodying the governor's recommendations.

Stand Little Chance. Assemblyman John L. Dahl, administration floor leader, said Tuesday night that such a measure would in all likelihood stand but little chance of passage because of the United veto opposition of all factions, which would be mustered against it, and because of the opposition of a number of drys who feel that the governor's veto of the Matheson bill was purely a political move. A governor's veto will not be obstructed by him, should a really effective enforcement proposal be presented to the legislature at this time, Assemblyman A. C. Matheson said. Assemblyman A. C. Matheson, author of the vetoed bill, said.

Matheson Not Spiteful. "I do not wish to be a dog in the manger in this matter," Mr. Matheson declared. "It is not my intention to be spiteful and oppose a move that would better the enforcement statutes. However, I would reserve the right to give careful and thorough consideration to the governor's bill before and if it comes up before adjournment to support it."

While not speaking for the Anti-Saloon league, Mr. Matheson said that he did not believe it would stand against an effective prohibition measure if Governor Blaine should have it introduced.

Will Oppose New Bill. Many dry members of the lower house and of the senate declared that they believed they would oppose any new bill, saying that they had thrashed out the prohibition matter once, and agreed on a bill which they knew to be better than the present law. The governor should take the responsibility for his step in refusing to sanction that item, they said.

BRYAN WILL VOTE IN FLORIDA IN FUTURE

New York.—William Jennings Bryan will vote in Florida in the future. While here Tuesday he announced that his actual residence in that state would become legal residence. He was influenced in making the change, he said, by the state of Mrs. Bryan's health and in his new home he expects to concern himself as much as ever with public affairs.

MORGAN, PROMINENT BELOIT MAN, DIES

Beloit.—F. W. Morgan, former Beloit resident, famous as a chemist, marksman, yachtsman and art critic and the man who established the famous Morgan farm of 1,000 acres near Beloit, died in Chicago Saturday. William Morgan, a son, still lives here.

Mr. Morgan discovered and patented the process of manufacturing rubber pneumatic tires for automobiles and bicycles. Until his patents expired he received a royalty on every rubber tire made.

Council Sidelights

Flaherty Gets Contract.

The bid of W. T. Flaherty & Sons, 310 West Milwaukee street, for furnishing the city cars and trucks with gasoline and oil for the ensuing year was considered the best of three submitted and he was awarded the contract upon motion of Ald. E. H. Ransom. The other two bidders were, Boner Oil Co., and Burges & Broegs.

Talk of Band Stand.

Bids will be advertised soon for the erection of long talked of bandstand in the court house park. City Engineer C. V. Kerch announced to the council Tuesday night after Alderman Horn inquired as to the status of the proposal. A petition was read from the Bower City band asking for early action. There was some talk as to the site to be chosen. Alderman Gibbons entering an objection to the proposal to locate it 100 feet below the soldiers' monument on the grounds that it would constitute traffic and fire hazards.

Sprinkle More Streets.

Four more streets, recently paved, were added to the city's yearly street sprinkling program for the business district by an ordinance, drawn up by the highway committee, and pushed through to passage Tuesday night. It adds the following streets to the list already provided in ordinance 41 which must be kept sprinkled: West Milwaukee, Academy to Five Points; Center avenue, Five Points to Center street; Bluff Court to North First; and North First, Main to Bluff.

The ordinance provides the cost shall be borne by the abutting property owners. Because of the volume of work of Alderman Dullin, Commissioner Thomas McKune, Alderman Dullin offered a resolution that monthly collections for sprinkling in the business district be made by City Clerk E. J. Sartell. This was passed.

Permit to Ball Club.

The Tractor City Ball club was given a permit to stretch signs across East Milwaukee street at the Myers hotel corner advertising ball games from time to time throughout the summer.

Enslow Matter Delayed.

"Let's see what he's got before giving him permission," recommended Alderman Dullin in again speaking on the request of Charles Enslow, superintendent of the Utilities Manufacturing corporation, to install a "silent policeman," or traffic director, at any downtown corner, free of charge.

"The posts he put in last year were an absolute failure," said Mr. Dullin, "so I would ask that we look into this time more carefully. I haven't the letter here that Mr. Enslow wrote to me—it had a little more kick in it than this."

Alderman Dullin's resolution was passed that the request be laid on the table for two weeks, the new type of post to be inspected in the meantime by members of the council.

Elks Get Permit.

The Janesville lodge of Elks, No. 254, was given permission to have the use of the Corn Exchange, from Milwaukee to Franklin street, for an outdoor entertainment during the week beginning June 27, after some discussion. The request was granted on the understanding that the street be kept open to traffic at all times, this being the recommendation of Alderman Dullin.

"The profits from this are to apply on the building of a clubhouse for the Elks," said Charles Boutin, when called upon. "It will be high class entertainment—tight wire walkers, horizontal bar work, etc.—absolutely free to the public, and entirely dissociated from a carnival."

There will be an orchestra and a dancing place and numerous concessions.

Night Tourist Camp.

Definite steps toward setting Janesville's tourist camp at the fair grounds in shape for early use were taken with the passage of Ald. Walter Helms' resolution to give the lighting committee power to install enough lights to properly illuminate the grounds.

Money for Launch Club.

One hundred dollars, instead of the usual $50, was appropriated for use of the Janesville Launch club in fixing the public dock, stretching a life-guard cable across the river at Fourth avenue bridge, cleaning the river of floats, and fixing the back truck. J. E. Ameropol is head of the club and will direct the expenditures.

40 New Sidewalks.

Forty new cement sidewalks were ordered laid in the First, Second, Third, Sixth and Seventh wards.

Fix Office Hours.

The city officer, upon motion of Alderman Horn, was instructed to draw up an ordinance defining the office hours for city employees. This has been determined by resolution from time to time, said Mr. Horn, in explaining that he believes an ordinance should be put on the books covering this permanently. The ordinance would provide for an 8-hour day for city employees—8 to 12 and 1 to 5—Saturday afternoons off during June, July and August, and that the city treasurer's office be kept open noons during tax collection time, and the water office open noons during the time of paying the quarterly rentals.

Miscellaneous Matters.

The bond of Freeman-Sweet company, Chicago, for furnishing 200 ornamental lights and standards for extensions to the present street lighting system was approved upon resolution of Alderman Harlow. The monthly reports of the board of education, municipal court and police department were received and placed on file, the educational report being ordered published.

Aldermen Get Bills.

For the first time in months, the aldermen voted payment of the semi-monthly bills and salaries, each having knowledge of the measure he was voting upon. Each alderman found on his desk at the opening of the meeting a complete list of the bills and the purposes for which the money was to be spent. All were seen going over the lists carefully. The lists are to be prepared for each day for City Clerk E. J. Sartell, thus eliminating the reading of the bills which would take up considerable time.

Three Permits Granted.

The Automotive Machine & Tool company, D. S. Harder, president, was given permission to re-hang its sign at 203 East Milwaukee street, having moved there from 322 Deloit avenue. Similar permission was granted the Universal Grocery at 113 East Milwaukee street.

A. S. Hegg, proprietor of a new photography studio at 415 West Milwaukee street, asked for permission to install a show case on the sidewalk. This request was laid over two weeks for investigation.

"Our sidewalks are getting too thick with signs and cases," said Alderman Dullin.

William J. Canary was given permission to put his popcorn stand on the Bicknell property at the corner of North Academy and Wall streets. J. H. Conley was granted a permit to place a similar stand along the west wall of 123 West Milwaukee street, corner of South Franklin and West Milwaukee, following approval of George K. Tallman, owner of the property.

Extend Storm Sewer.

Steps were taken toward extending the Glen street storm sewer, from North Bluff to Hickory street, by passage of a resolution instructing the city engineer to prepare plans and have Street Commissioner Thomas McKune build the sewer under his direction.

Two Aldermen Absent.

Two aldermen were absent at the adjourned regular meeting Tuesday night. Ald. J. K. Jensen is in Grand Forks, N. D., attending a Lutheran synod meeting, while Ald. George M. Smith is confined to his home with illness.

Capt. Jonah's Fortune

By JAMES A. COOPER

"Hoh!" ejaculated Tom. "What do you mean?"

"New, Tom," came the admonitory voice of his mother. Then she hastened to say: "Full right up, Uncle Jonah. Sit down and eat."

Sarah's sharp voice punctuated the silence following the usual table small talk.

"I presume you've got plenty saved up after all these years for your board and keep, uncle? You was the forehandest of all the Hands, I know."

"Oh," said the captain dryly. "I can pay my way for quite a spell yet, before I had to look up lodgin's at the poor farm. And that brings up a little matter we might well discuss right now at the start. Niece Sarah, 'O' course," the old man went on placidly, "you air my only living relative. Sarah, if I should die my ancher tonight you'd stand to git such prop'ly as I might die possessed of. But a straight out and out understanding, even betwixt kith and kin, is the only way to fend off fiteen. I want, if I won't be crowdin' you an' your folks, Sarah, to stop along of you instead of tryin' to buck it as so many of us old salts have to when we leave the sea for good and all. What I want, you know, is, will you board an' lodge me, and do for me as the sayin' is, an' for how much a month? I ain't no millionaire, as I tell you, but I have always paid my shot an' I ain't cal'late to while there's any shot left in the locker."

"Well, now, uncle," his niece again ejaculated as though the subject of money was quite a painful one.

And it was. She was in a nervous flutter for four she would not tax the old sea captain all that he could possibly stand. Yet, for a very good reason, she wished to appear generous to her relative. Not only might it be true that Capt. Jonah was wealthy, but that old note given by her father for two thousand dollars might still be in existence.

"I don't expect you to cram yourself none, Sarah," Capt. Jonah went on. "I can't give you a pretty nice room. Pearly give me."

"She done jest what I would have done myself if I'd been to home," murmured Sarah Petty.

Secretly she could have shaken her head and said to herself that it would have made your head swim to listen to them. Occasionally you could hear such sentences as these: "When did you make up your mind to go?"

"How did you ever persuade my timid little mother to start out on such a long journey?"

"I am sure you will never get back to us alive."

"Well, I sure won't come back if we are dead."

"Where are you first going to look for Billy?"

"Granpa, will you bring me something nice from the store?"

Give my darling brother a thousand kisses and tell him that his twin sister is longing to see him. I wonder if you will find him married, and if so, how you will like his wife?"

In this way they talked until the rising of the morning star warned them that they must tear themselves away from their loved one and proceed on their journey, or they would be caught and driven back to the farm.

The last glimpse Billy and Nannie had of Day was crying on her husband's neck and arms, and they were standing on either side trying to comfort her.

Billy and Nannie traveled for some distance without saying a word far from each other, and then they turned and now for the first time Billy had some misgivings as to whether he was not a silly old goat, to start out on so long a journey (when he was a grandfather), and he had half a mind to turn and go back, when his ear caught the sound of the crack of a big whip, and he saw, in the faint morning light, a drove of goats coming toward them in a cloud of dust, down a side road.

He was so surprised at seeing anything or anybody on the road so early in the morning that at first he did not know which way to turn. For there were no bushes or trees near by to hide behind, so he bleated under his breath to Nannie to lie down flat on the ground, hoping that in the dim light the driver would not see them.

He was right. The man driving the goats turned out of the side road into the main one and went his way without having caught a glimpse of Billy and Nannie, but he did not know that the driver's shepherd dog that had been chasing a rabbit and had come out of the field right upon them. The dog, seeing the goats, chased them down the road toward the herd, into which they drove them regardless of Billy's threats to nip their ears or Nannie's bleats of fear when they snipped at her.

"Good dogs! good dogs!" cried the driver, when he saw them bringing along two fine looking sheep, but when they came near he knew from their extra size and the supple white coat of Nannie that they did not belong to him, but not being in honest mood, he decided to keep them with his own bunch so that they would bring a higher price when he sold them.

(Billy and Nannie are in for more than they ever dreamed of.)

Billy Whiskers

After the event of the dog, Nannie and Billy kept close together until they came in sight of the farm where they were to stay. They were in the whitewashed fence, which they saw gleaming in the darkness, and presently they heard a low bleat and there was Day, her husband, and the two kids looking through the fence at them.

"Come into the field! Come into the field so that I can get closer to you," called Day.

"It's all right," answered Billy. "You mother can't jump up hill and the bank slopes away from the fence. I'll tell you what we will do. We will scratch a hole and crawl under the fence. You dig from your side and we will dig from ours and then we will soon have a hole big enough to creep through, and sure enough they did."

Once through the fence they talked so fast and said so much that it would have made your head swim to listen to them. Occasionally you could hear such sentences as these: "When did you make up your mind to go?"

"How did you ever persuade my timid little mother to start out on such a long journey?"

"I am sure you will never get back to us alive."

Thousands of Women are Weak, Nervous, Irritable, Easily Upset All Because Their Blood Lacks Iron

Most women need to eat more SPINACH AND CARROTS, other iron-containing vegetables and re-inforce them occasionally with a little organic iron to help enrich their blood and REVITALIZE THEIR WORKWORN EXHAUSTED NERVES.

When your BLOOD becomes THIN, PALE AND WATERY it loses its power to change food into living tissue and therefore your nerves and other vital parts of your body do not receive sufficient nourishment—YOUR NERVE FORCE BECOMES WEAKENED and you become "run-down," cross, complaining, nervous, irritable and easily upset.

You may also suffer from pain and aches across the back or in the head, disturbed digestion, loss of memory, weakened will power, melancholy, irritability, shortness of breath, heart palpitation and numerous other symptoms all because of iron starvation of the blood. Women especially need iron even more than men on account of the heavier demands nature makes on them.

When your blood is starving for iron, no more tonics or stimulants can put you right. Starving blood must have iron! The same as a starving person must have food—iron is red blood food and you must take iron to supply such food. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acid on small pieces of iron and is therefore culturally different from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It may be found from your druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron also contains a remarkable product brought to the attention of the French Academy of Medicine by the celebrated Dr. Robin, which represents the principal chemical constituent of active, living nerve force, FOR FEEDING THE NERVES, so that NUXATED IRON might be said to be both a BLOOD AND NERVE FOOD. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N.I. on every tablet. At all druggists.

STAMP COLLECTING IS GOOD HOBBY AND IT IS EDUCATIONAL

Nearly everybody finds pleasure in making a collection whether it be stamps, birds, eggs, sea shells, or what not. And more than that, many things of real value are to be learned in "riding the hobby."

Stamp collecting is one of the best hobbies that a boy or girl can take up. The fun comes in delving into the history behind every stamp, or classifying the stamps, and then "showing them off" to your friends.

Postage stamps are excellent reminders of historical events. Nearly every country occasionally issues a stamp to commemorate some important happening in its history.

The stamp bug is fully studying the pictures on the "issue," in his collection, can tell you many things about the geography of the countries represented, that you may not have learned from your school books.

The pictures on the stamps are little stories of history and geography in themselves.

Easy to Start

It is not difficult to start a stamp collection. Advertisements appear in many magazines, in which dealers offer small packets of stamps at reasonable prices, prepared especially for beginners.

Specimens may be secured in other ways. If you have a business friend whose correspondence is not limited to this country, have him save for you all the foreign and peculiar stamps he gets. Old trunks of letters often contain many rare, valuable old stamps. By trading with other stamp collectors in your neighborhood or school, you can add desirable specimens to your collection.

Purchase "Guide Book"

Keep your stamps in a neat blank book. Divide the pages of the album into small sections, one for a stamp. Allow a certain number of pages for one country, a certain number for another, etc.

Do not paste the stamps into the album. Use the gummed-paper "hinges" that may be purchased from stamp dealers.

To guide you in learning the history, value, markings, etc. of your stamps, a catalogue is invaluable. For a reasonable and small sum of money you can buy one from a dealer. This guide book will also protect you from fraudulent dealers.

XX—MISSISSIPPI

The state of Mississippi derives its name from the river which forms its western boundary. The word itself comes from the Algonquin language, which means "great river."

It is popularly supposed to mean "Father of the Waters" but this interpretation is incorrect. The state is also known as the Bayou state from its many bayous which are formed by the shifting river. In this connection it is interesting to note the uneven course of the Mississippi river. Though the extreme length of the state from the Gulf to Tennessee is 330 miles, the western border due to the winding of the Mississippi river, extends for nearly 500 miles.

The rivers play an important part in this state. They are so numerous, Mississippi in national elections, has and the country so subject to flood that the river bottoms cover nearly one-fifth of the area of the entire state.

The early history of Mississippi is yoked up with that of Louisiana, which it originally formed a part. Discovered by De Soto in 1521, it was not until La Salle sailed down the river and claimed the territory, which he named in honor of his French king, Louis XIV, that a permanent settlement was established.

In 1763 the territory east of the Mississippi was ceded by the French to the English. For a while the lower portion of the present state was called West Florida. After being captured by the Spanish and later returned to the United States, the Territory of Mississippi was extended to its present size of 46,565 square miles, and in 1817 it was admitted as the twentieth state of the Union. At the time of the Mexican war, although called upon to supply one regiment of volunteers, Mississippi responded with enough men for two. One of these men, David, who later was president of the Confederate states. Since its readmittance to the Union in 1870

The Grand American Prerogative

THE right to choose is the grand American prerogative—the glory of American democracy.

And a most important part of it—the right to choose what you buy—was bestowed upon you by advertising.

Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or motor traction. It is the system whereby a man who has something to sell tells about it to those who do or should use it. For no one can want anything until he knows of its existence.

Advertising is the way by which you are told why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. So the advertisements you find in this newspaper make up a catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and pictures. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements will help you in the selection of all manner of things.

Use them for guidance and you will be a constant gainer
